

Intravenous Conscious Sedation and Local Anaesthetic

The procedure

Your minor operation will be carried out using a safe sedation technique, which will ensure you are relaxed and comfortable but not asleep.

A small injection is usually given in your arm or the back of your hand. This will relax you such that any dental anxiety will be significantly diminished.

When you are fully sedated and relaxed, a local anaesthetic is given to completely numb the operation site.

What are the risks?

Risks associated with sedation are minimal. In the unlikely event that you become too sleepy under the sedation you will be given a drug to reverse the affects.

What are the benefits of sedation?

- it avoids the use of a general anaesthetic and the risks associated with it
- it alleviates anxiety and stress of surgery
- you will not remember everything about the surgery as it has a mild amnesic affect

Are there any alternatives?

It is possible to have treatment under a local anaesthetic only, this means the area treated will feel numb but you will be fully awake and alert throughout the procedure.

It is important that you have considered all the options available to you before you sign your consent form. Please ask if you have any questions.

Preparing for your surgery

It is essential that you are accompanied to and from the hospital by an adult. This person must be prepared to wait in the Maxillofacial Unit during your treatment and then accompany you home by car and stay with you for 24 hours.

Please:

- do not drink alcohol for 24 hours before your surgery
- wear loose sleeves and flat shoes
- remove nail varnish

- do not bring your children to this appointment, or any other people who depend on you for their care needs
- bring with you your prescription for any medicines that you are currently taking, along with any herbal remedies and supplements, and show them to the doctor
- make yourself comfortable, toilets are situated in the department for use before booking in for your appointment

You must not travel home on public transport and on no account are you to drive yourself home.

Eating, drinking and taking medication

You should have a light meal and then nothing to eat for six hours before your treatment.

You may drink clear fluids, such as water, black tea/coffee, up to two hours before your treatment. Do not drink fizzy or milky drinks.

Please do ensure you continue to take any prescribed medication, with a sip of clear fluids, as required, unless told otherwise by a doctor.

Smoking

Smoking delays healing and increases the risk of infection; so please avoid smoking before and after surgery, until your wounds have healed.

The hospital has a no-smoking policy which means that smoking is not allowed inside the hospital, in any entrances or doorways or within the grounds.

After surgery

Following intravenous sedation and local anaesthetic, it is important that you have someone stay with you overnight.

It is important to avoid any of the following for at least 24 hours and preferably 48 hours:

- driving
- using any power tool or mechanical machinery
- drinking alcohol
- undue exertion
- making any vital decisions or signing any important documents

Will I be in pain afterwards?

It is a good idea to have mild painkillers at home such as paracetamol or ibuprofen, (unless you are allergic, sensitive to or unable to take aspirin or similar products).

We recommend that you take a painkiller before the numbness of the local anaesthetic wears off, as you may experience some discomfort then.

When taking medicines it is important to read and follow the instructions, warnings and dosage on the bottle or packet. If you are prescribed antibiotics, complete the course.
